Strategy & OKRs — FY27

FY27 runs 1 April 2026 to 31 March 2027 · Updated 15 July 2026 (pipeline figures updated 30 September 2026)

§1 Who we are

Legion Capital is a Mumbai-based NBFC offering digital personal loans and SME working-capital loans, and Legion Pay, a checkout product for our SME borrowers. We process about 10 million payment transactions a month (loan collections and Legion Pay checkout), currently all through Arvanta Payments.

§2 Outlook

Payment volume is forecast to grow 25% over the next 12 months.

§3 FY27 OKRs (extract)

Objective	Key result
1. Lower our cost to serve	1.1 Cost-to-income ratio from 48% to 42%
2. Make payments resilient	2.1 No single payment gateway above 70% of volume by 31 March 2027 2.2 Payment success rate at or above 97.8%
3. Grow SME payments	3.1 Launch international card acceptance for SME merchants

§4 Growth bets

Cross-border: 30 SME merchants in the pipeline (about ₹45 crore a month) need international card acceptance, which Arvanta does not offer. At our 0.2% take rate, that's about ₹1.08 crore a year of fee revenue.
Legion Pay Later: BNPL at checkout planned for Q1 FY28 (April–June 2027). Brevis Pay offers native EMI/BNPL APIs; on Arvanta we would need a custom build of about 4 months.

§5 Market and partner notes

- Competitor Vireo Finance moved to a multi-gateway setup in June 2026 and now advertises "99.9% payment uptime" to SMEs.
- Two of our top five co-lending partners already settle through Brevis Pay.
- Sales survey: 70% of lost SME deals in Q2–Q3 FY27 cited lack of international card acceptance.
- Vendor profile: Brevis Pay is 3 years old with about 1,200 merchants; Arvanta is 9 years old with about 40,000 merchants.

Legion Capital, Arvanta Payments, Brevis Pay, Sentrix Risk, Vireo Finance, Coral Bank and Tamra Bank are fictional.